ABOUT OUR TOPIC....(Presented Bilingually)

If you are already in the HR Community or want to be, this topic is for you!

Competency models have become a dramatic resource in refocusing people on what it takes to succeed in today's workplace environment. The Human Resources Council are completing the development of generic Personnel Administration (PE) Group tools that include work descriptions, organizational models and competencies for implementation across the HR Community in the core public administration. Attend this session and find out more about:

- What is required in the new generic system;
- How the competencies will be used; and
- How they may affect entry and progression through the PE group.

We will also be presenting our “Thomas G. Morry Award” at this event. This Award is presented to a federal government organization in the National Capital Region for excellence in human resources management. Come and congratulate the winning team!
